Anne was born in Canada, but now divides her time between Florida and North Carolina. She is a past president of the Florida Watercolor Society, and the author of the popular book titled Daring Color.

The students will paint a different topic each day, focusing on mingling the colors to enhance the subjects' composition, light, and shadows. To optimize the time spent in the workshop, Anne provides the images, and the students transfer the images on watercolor paper ahead of time. There will be daily demonstrations, combined with personal help and group learning in a a supportive and fun atmosphere.
