Paul George's workshops are most informative and motivating for both the beginner and the experienced painter. Paul concentrates on three basic elements: shape, value, and color. You will paint from photos, but Paul's focus is to teach you how to approach any subject and execute a good painting.

You'll begin with a complete look at values and how to use them to simplify, design, and improve your painting. Composition is number one. Next, you'll move into the exciting world of color. Paul will support each subject with talks, painting demonstrations, and with personal one on one support.

"He is one of those rare individuals that is not only a good painter, but a committed and creative teacher as well." Quote from International Magazine, 2007.
